“I enjoyed how hands-on most of my classes were. For the required units such as Creative Histories and British Cultural Studies, we went on walks and visits that I always looked forward to each week. They helped us to really understand the history of different areas of London and engage with the topic we were learning about that week. I saw places in London that I might not have known to visit otherwise and was left knowing more about fashion history and British history than ever before.

“I used to believe that taking a shorter course might be superficial and less effective. However, after completing the Fashion Design course, I can confidently say that it was both intensive and enjoyable. I gained a wealth of knowledge, insights, and made some wonderful friends along the way.”
